

Integrating Design and Technology

W.J. White Limited

The W.J. White Custom-Built come range of office furniture is a seamless blend of tradition and technology, from the carefully hand-selected veneers to laser-engineered table bases.

A client-driven design concept that delivers practical and workable, yet stylish quality. The result is the subtle evolution of a client's concept into an integrated platform for the workplace that is simply a pleasure to experience, visually and practically. A product that is sound in construction, adaptable in use, yet stunning in the quality of finish and striking in design.

Design goes far beyond simply the look of the furniture, it must reflect practical application. It is about understanding what the client wants from the end product and how it can be best achieved within the design brief. Understanding how IT must be streamed to the work area for a functional solution without compromising the design dynamic of the furniture. Understanding very special furniture applications.
